ESTABLISHED 1977

A New Monarke II Organ from Johannus Orgelbouw The Church of Saint Asaph, Bala Cynwyd, PA

This new, digital-pipe hybrid organ consists of a low-profile, custom designed two-manual console with 50 digital voices and large multi-channel Audio system (20.3). “Married” to these digital voices are 9 ranks of Austin wind-blown pipes at the rear of the church, furnishing a portion of the stops for the Great Division. This marriage of a classic pipe organ with state-of-the-art digital sampling technology creates an instrument of exceptional beauty and versatility.

The resulting instrument places St. Asaph’s squarely at the forefront of modern church organ design and technology in the Philadelphia region. It is the first new instrument of its sort in the Philadelphia area and continues to be featured broadly in local organ guilds’ recital programs and other musical events. Hybrid virtual organs are becoming the new normal, and this instrument from Johannus will be known especially for its unique qualities and the international pedigree of Johannus’ parent organization – The Global Organ Group, The Netherlands.
